Joey: Great talking with you the other day. As per our conversation, I can create a complete website for your estate sale business that will include content pages focusing on variations of search phrases that we think users will be using to find you on Google. It will also feature a blog element that can allow you to keep posting new information and photos of past sales, etc. I can also help you create a Google My Business profile to put on you Google maps.

As we discussed the website development will cost $1000 and will include training for you to keep adding to it in the future as needed. The only extra costs we discussed would be the annual hosting fee of $200, and a logo design fo $100. This brings the total to $1300 for the complete website. I generally like to get 50% as a deposit to get the entire site built to your satisfaction and then the remainder once the site goes live.

Personal check is preferable. You can send $700 to:

Call me when you have time to brainstorm content for the site. In the meantime I will review the content on competitors' websites. Thanks!
